GM Corner

Networking is an essential part of conducting business. Web 2.0 is becoming the newest trend in government. This technology enables everyone to communicate on a regular basis and stay up to date on the latest news.

Nebraska.gov is working with the Chief Information Officer's staff to place the State of Nebraska on the cutting edge of technology. Our goal is to bring the citizens of Nebraska, as well people beyond our borders, the most current resources and information possible.

We are always looking for a more efficient way of delivering eGovernment services. Please feel free to contact Nebraska.gov to discuss how we can help your agency or organization.

Business Entity Reports Can be Filed Online

Certain business entities for the first time will be able to file required reports online with the Nebraska Secretary of State's Office.

Effective Jan. 5, the office started accepting online filings of biennial reports of limited liability companies and annual reports of limited liability partnerships. Payments for the online filings may be made by credit card or electronic check.

"Businesses should enjoy the convenience and ease of filing online," said Secretary of State John Gale.

He said online filing has the potential to significantly ease the paperwork handled by his office, noting that Nebraska has about 33,000 limited liability companies and 400 limited liability partnerships.

The plan is to expand the type of reports that can be filed online in future years, Gale said.

The business entity reports are used for the office's database so the public has updated information on businesses.

NIC in the News

eGovernment firm NIC (NASDAQ: EGOV - News) has just launched "Most Wanted," a FREE iPhone application dedicated to helping families of missing children and law enforcement. The application has averaged 5,000 downloads per day and has broken the top 10 in iTunes' Free Utility applications in its first three days of availability.

Most Wanted features FBI's Top 10 Most Wanted, Terrorists, and Missing Children. Each has background information, a picture, and a place for individuals to provide tips. Most Wanted is a FREE application and can be found at

"NIC has been deploying mobile services for years, but the faster wireless networks and smarter devices are making the development of more advanced services possible," said Harry Herington, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of NIC. "As an ex-law enforcement officer, I felt strongly that developing and launching the Most Wanted application was the right thing for NIC to do as it directly supports two very important groups - families of missing children and law enforcement."
