On November 18, 2011, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) released a Report and Order and Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking¹ ("Report and Order") and therein adopted an intercarrier compensation framework for both intrastate and interstate telecommunications traffic which will transition to a bill and keep regime. As a part of the transition to bill and keep, the FCC's Report and Order requires carriers to reduce their terminating intrastate access rates to the level of their interstate switched access rates in two steps. In the first step, carriers with certain intrastate access rates above interstate access rates are required to reduce their intrastate rates thereby reducing the intrastate revenue produced by these rates by 50 percent effective July 1, 2012², which was extended to July 3, 2012, as July 1st fell on a Sunday.³

In its Report and Order, the FCC assigned state commissions with the responsibility to facilitate the implementation of changes to intrastate access rates and to ensure carrier compliance with the Report and Order. To that end, the Nov. 18, 2011)(Report and Order) pets. for review pending, Direct Commc'ns Cedar Valley, LLC v FCC, No. 11-9581 (10th Cir. filed Dec. 18, 2011) (and consolidated cases).

² See 47 C.F.R. §§ 51.907(b), 51.909(b) and 51.911(b).

Commission opened this proceeding to establish an efficient process by which the Commission could review the large number of simultaneous access filings and at the same time assist carriers in complying with the FCC's new rules.

Revised tariffs were required to be filed in time to be considered effective July 3, 2012. However, because of the limited time frame provided for the Commission's review of the revised access rates, those access reductions were to be considered interim for a period of time following the July 3, 2012, effective date and subject to true-up to the extent that the Commission determined that the submitted rates require modification.

On August 31, 2012, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) issued an Order⁴ to investigate certain 2012 annual access tariff filings. The FCC identified a list of carriers subject to the investigation. On October 10, 2012, the Hearing Officer entered an order to clarify the procedure for filing changed or updated tariffs filed with the Commission pursuant to the FCC's August 31, 2012 Order.

The purpose of this Progression Order is to consider whether the rates contained in these tariffs filed in this proceeding are compliant with the FCC's Report and Order and rules promulgated thereunder. The Commission staff has reviewed the tariffs filed in this proceeding and recommend that the carrier listed in "Appendix A" be considered compliant with the FCC's new rules. Upon consideration of this recommendation, the Commission hereby finds the staff recommendation should be approved and the tariff filed by the carrier listed in "Appendix A" should be deemed compliant with the FCC's Report and Order and 47 C.F.R. §§ 51.907(b), 51.909(b) and 51.911(b).

In addition, the Commission staff is continuing to review the tariff filed by the carrier listed in "Appendix B." Once that review is complete, the Commission will make its determination and will enter a further progression order finalizing its review.

⁴ See In the Matter of Investigation of Certain 2012 Annual Access Tariffs, WC Docket No. 12-233, WCB Pricing No. 12-09, Order Designating Issues for Investigation, 27 F.C.C.R. 10311, 27 FCC Rcd. 10311 (August 31, 2012) ("FCC Investigation").
